

HOME MOVIES

Lamyatt Village Hall Saturday 3rd February 2018

After last year's packed out performance in the village hall of the play 'Tree House' written by Chris Fogg, Chris was back with another great evening of entertainment for the 'Lamyattis' along with his collaborator Chris Waters. Chris, hailing from north Manchester, and Chris hailing from South London, tapped into their memories of growing up and helped identify some of the common elements that unite us all.

They brought an evening of poetry, stories and conversation, interspersed with extracts of old black & white films, Pathé Newsreels, home movies and old photographs on the theme of family favourites. With the first half packed with memories of early visits to the cinema, and the second half touching on how we are all shaped by the past, Home Movies was a warm-hearted mixture of wry reminiscence, inviting audiences to take a fresh look at the familiar.
